As you come to the end of your high school days and start on a new journey, may this lesson never be forgotten. Our best wishes go with you.

UNDER the guidance of Miss Taylor, the Executive Board of the Senior High School accomplished profitable work.

The various Board committees functioned with marked success this year. The Ways and Means committee, because of increased interest in the games, has had a busier time. It has served at the dances, as well as at all the athletic events. This has been the most successful social season for years.

Various point changes offered by the Honor Award committee were approved by the Board. These consisted of a revision of the Lantern point set-up, awarding points to intra-mural basketball officials, and a new arrangement for cheerleaders. For the first time this year, students earning two hundred or more points were awarded guards for their Honor Keys.

The Fall Board consisted of Bob Day, president; Dan Robb, vice-president; Ed Hamilton, secretary-treasurer; and the presidents of all senior high home rooms with a representative from each Senior class. At the Senior Recognition service Dan Robb was installed as president, Ed Hamilton as vice-president, and Jack Fischer as secretary-treasurer for the spring semester.

Student Council

THE Junior High School is governed by the Student Council, an organization whose work is similar to that of the Executive Board.

Under the supervision of Miss Leeper and Miss Aldstadt, the Council meets every week during club period. Its aim this year was to have a committee revise the constitution. In addition to this, definite committees and squads had charge of honor letters, social activities, traffic regulations, and lost and found articles. The news service and line-up squads were very active also.

The Student Council consists of the officers elected each semester and the presidents of the various home rooms.

The officers for 1937-1938 were:

A PLAY IN ONE ACT

Characters: Betty Craig
Elizabeth Hill
Marden Armstrong

Scene: (The curtain rises, revealing the living room of Elizabeth Hill's modern apartment in the year 1950. It is furnished in modern colonial style, with chintz-covered furniture and booklined walls. Seated on a low divan, Elizabeth Hill is engrossed in the 1938 Lebanon Log. Suddenly she is startled by a knock, and rising, she opens the door, admitting Betty Craig and Marden Armstrong.)

ELIZ: Hello! I was hoping that you'd drop in. I've found an old Log, and have been having a grand time looking through it.

BETTY: Oh, good! I misplaced mine years ago.

MARD: That ought to be loads of fun.
(They all sit down, the Log in front of them.)

BETTY: (laughing) How funny everyone looks!

MARD: Aren't those hair styles rare?

ELIZ: Incidentally, I wonder if Adella Jaspert still has such gorgeous golden hair.

MARD: I saw her sister, Betty, the other day. You know she's a model at Marshall Fields now.

BETTY: Yes, and Bertha Beitler and Mary Hanover model there too.

ELIZ: Oh look, here's Dick Anderson. He's a bouncer at the Yacht Club Casino.

BETTY: Betty Prescott sings there now. They say that she's quite a hit.

MARD: While we're on the subject of hits, did you see the latest play Jack Stauff produced, starring Marion Stafford? It was a grand success, and Bob Zwinggi was a perfect leading man.

ELIZ: Did either of you see Bob Bacon at the Stanley last week? He's really a top-notch comedian. I hear that he's going on the radio next month.

BETTY: Our class members should really go places on the radio now that Bob Leathers is president of N.B.C., and Harold Moore is chief electrical engineer.

ELIZ: Yes, and look at Jim Huntsberger and Hal Calvert. They really have done a good job, taking the place of Edgar Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, haven't they?

MARD: But even Hal couldn't come between Jim and Paul Hughes. Paul is their manager now. Oh, all this radio talk reminds me, Alice Louise Rager sang on the Metropolitan Opera broadcast last Saturday afternoon. Did either of you hear her?

BETTY: No, but I heard Jim Weisel sing last Thursday night at Syria Mosque. He got twelve curtain calls. Do you know who's coming next month?

ELIZ: Yes, Mary Louise Berkovitz. She's one of the outstanding concert pianists today.

MARD: Oh, look, here's Pat Ulam. I wonder what she's doing now.

ELIZ: Why, she's a home economics expert at Heinz. Lenora Imrie does the same type of work there, too.

BETTY: Did you know Nancy McKelvie and Edith Swartz were home for a visit? They're career women and have their own apartment in New York.

MARD: Ed Gaber is a chemistry professor at Pitt. Here's his picture. He hasn't changed a bit.

BETTY: While we're on the subject of chemistry, did you know that Dick Miller is Head of Mellon Institute, and Al Hofrichter is his assistant? They say that they're doing great things out there.

ELIZ: Oh, here's Jack Whitehill's picture. Remember when he supported the library with the fines he paid?

BETTY: And here's Bob Wheeler. I'll never forget the time he wrecked his mother's car.

MARD: I wonder if Dot Morris has learned yet that a car needs gas to go uphill. I suppose that these bacteriologists are a trifle absent minded, though.

ELIZ: Oh, by the way, I hear that Ray Jones was appointed traffic commissioner.

BETTY: Look, there's Thelma Dublin. She's married now, and has twins—two adorable boys.

MARD: I was at the Century Club last week and heard Betty Volz speak. She's the president and just as attractive as she used to be.

ELIZ: By the way, Dorothy Thompson was elected secretary of the International Congress of Women's Clubs.

BETTY: (laughing) I heard the other day that Betti Vance had won a new kind of marathon. She talked incessantly for ten days.

MARD: Here's Joe Haller. Remember when he invented an engine to be run by steam generated by Joe Salisbury and Walt McCain? (They all laugh.)

ELIZ: And there's Bud Cline. I'll never forget the time he signed up to be an usher at the class play. He certainly was embarrassed when he found out it was a girls' committee.

BETTY: Will you ever forget that class play? Howard Hanna, as the professor, was a scream.

ELIZ: Who is this? Why, it's Mary Brannon. I never would have recognized her. She's a champion swimmer now.

BETTY: And here's Jack Creehan. He's still a good runner. I hear that he's going to the next Olympic games.

MARD: Speaking of sports, the last that I heard of Dan Robb and Jack Fischer, they were both football coaches. Nice work!

BETTY: This is a bit off the subject, but I saw Charles Dimmick yesterday. He's running an employment agency and told me to come around if I lost my job.

MARD: And I saw Ed Taylor last week. It was obvious that he still prefers redheads.

ELIZ: Oh, here's Bud Kirkpatrick. I wonder if he's still as good-looking as ever?

BETTY: He probably is. (laughing) Elizabeth, I just remembered what we came over here for. We wanted to know if you had been to see Gwen Yeagle since her appendectomy.

ELIZ: Yes, I was at the hospital yesterday, and whom do you think I saw there? George Madden. He was in an automobile accident, but wasn't hurt very badly, just a broken leg and some head injuries. You'll never guess who his doctor and nurse are—George Lacy and Beatrice Hugus. Rather coincidental, isn't it?

MARD: You know our class doesn't seem to have had much sickness.

ELIZ: No, but don't forget those who were injured in the war.

BETTY: (slowly) There's Gil Andreen, Frank Spreha, Walter Phillips, Virgil Johnston, and Harold Crowell. They all were decorated for bravery.

MARD: Salvatore Bellini certainly did a great thing when he invented that solution to counteract poison gas. He did the world a great service.

BETTY: Secretary of War is no easy job, but Clair Heatley did an admirable piece of work in that position during the war.

ELIZ: When I think of those war days, I wonder how we ever lived through them. And to think that two girls from our own class, Bette Miller and Charlotte Wyman, worked right at the front.

MARD: Let's change the subject. We're getting positively morbid. There's Mat Reynolds' picture. I saw in the paper that he's been carrying on a filibuster in the Senate during the past week.

BETTY: Here's Connie Bleecker. I do like her theater column in the newspaper, don't you? She certainly was right when she chose Newton Heisley as the year's best newsreel photographer.

ELIZ: While we're talking about movies, did you know that Dot Bromwich is a make-up expert at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer?

MARD: Bob Seltmann is working there as a sound engineer; John Massol is chief electrician at Twentieth Century-Fox.

BETTY: Did you see Louis Graham's last picture? He certainly is a ladies' man.

ELIZ: Oh, there's Jack de Benedictis. I wonder if he still dislikes girls.

BETTY: Who's this? Why it's John Cibos; I saw his paintings exhibited at the International Art Exhibit last month. He's really becoming quite famous.

MARD: I saw Ted Goldsmith buying a painting out there. He's supposed to have the finest collection in Pennsylvania.

Rolling Stones

ELIZ: Oh, that reminds me! I've been hearing about Warren Drexler's collection of old violins. I'd like to see it!

BETTY: I had an appointment with the dentist yesterday, and the man nearly killed me. I'm going to hunt a new one.

MARD: Why don't you go to Bob Holmes? He's just opened a new office in Mt. Lebanon, and has hired Janet Albright as his office assistant.

ELIZ: It's a bit off the subject, but I must tell you before I forget. I saw Jerry McCloskey, Bob Richards, Hazel Goldaine, and Elsie Neely at the Italian Terrace on Friday night. They seemed to be having a grand time.

BETTY: Here's Grace Rebholz and Thelma Campbell. I saw them wheeling baby carriages down the street today. They both seemed very happy about the whole thing.

ELIZ: Look at Vaughn Gordy. You'd never think that he's cleaned up Pittsburgh politics in such a short time.

MARD: Bob Leech helped a lot through the publicity he printed in his paper. They say that Paul Cain did all the reporting on that job.

BETTY: Vernon Augenstein and George Knotts got a lot of publicity in his paper, too, about their non-stop flight around the world.

ELIZ: And did you see last week where Wilma Usher had a house party? There was a long description of it on the society page. Dorothy Hartman, Bill Hamilton, Clarke McCormac, Jean Travis, and William Llewellyn were among the guests.

MARD: You'll never guess whom I met last summer in New York—Jane Nelson. She's a fashion editor for Vogue. You'll be surprised to know that Ruth Heil is her assistant.

BETTY: Here's Jim Taylor's picture. Do you know where he is now?

MARD: Why yes, I saw him in New York last summer too. He, Carl Singhouse, and Ken Blackburn are the town's most popular playboys.

ELIZ: I heard that Jack Berg made a fortune in the stock market. They say that his Long Island home is a dream.

MARD: And didn't Virginia May marry a wealthy New Yorker?

BETTY: I'll say she did! Oh, look, there's Bob Montague. He's a professor at Harvard. I wonder if he's still as absent-minded as he used to be.

ELIZ: You know that Charles Fetterman is head warden in a New England prison. He's worked some marvelous reforms there.

BETTY: Ed Mikelonis is chief electrocutioner at the same prison. I don't particularly envy him, do you?

MARD: Incidentally, Mary Jane Knoff is head of a social welfare community in Philadelphia, and has written a book about her work. Katherine Kranse is her assistant.

ELIZ: Say! Did either of you read that article in the Reader's Digest about Jim Eckenrode's getting a fortune by collecting diamonds and orchid bulbs in Brazil? He's something of an adventurer.

BETTY: (turning the page and smiling) I was at the circus a few weeks ago and you'd never guess who the lion tamers were—James Welch and Tom Aston.

MARD: Here's Walter Bruno. You know that he's taken over his father's barbers' supply house and is doing a fine business.

ELIZ: There's George Coward. He was just appointed chief color-guard to the President. I'll bet he feels proud.

BETTY: You'd never guess who's in the navy—John Fitzgerald. He's become quite an old salt.

MARD: (looking at her watch) Oh, how late it is! We really must be leaving, Elizabeth. We're going to Syria Mosque to see Bob Wycoff and his ballet. (she rises)

ELIZ: I'm sorry you must leave, but do come again soon.

BETTY: We'd love to. Goodbye. And thanks for the memories.

The Rime of the Ancient Senior

I wish I were a mystic who could see the future clear;
But since I'm not a prophet, I will try to bring you cheer
With tales about your comrades who to you have been so dear.
There's Roland Bowman, actor, who has built a little car!
He's done a lot to garner fame; we think he should go far.
And you know Mary Frances Connor, head in 116,
Who eats her lunch from Dotty's plate (in case you haven't seen).
In Barclay's poetry we see what Norma's love can do;
In fact we call him poet laureate of Twelve A two.
One girl among the class play cast already had some fame,
For Dotty Douglas has been acting ever since she came.
When looking back on high school years, remember Bob with Jean?
For Sands or Faris when apart are seldom ever seen.
Among the very greatest brains, Louise's stands quite high;
It's someone like that Wible girl who makes us dumb ones sigh.
And then there's Roy McCutchen who boasts math his greatest forte—
He's often been a help to us with minds of weaker sort.
If being in two operettas gains a gal some fame,
Then we agree that "Bobbie" Quail has earned herself a name.
Behind a fierce mustache Jack Klippel acted as a cop—
His victim on the stage was the only guy he'd ever stop.
Don Lewis is an athlete who has other talent too—
You see he is an artist who hangs out in Twelve A two.
Though famed for brains, our Isabelle, the one and only Gup,
Has done a lot around the school while keeping her grades up.
When glancing o'er the high school roll, remembering who was there,
Recall Don Russell, tenor; he's the guy who grows the hair.
Our tennis star, and actor too, has helped the class to rank;
He's made himself an envied name—you know him—he's George Blank.
And when you all grow old and gray, remember Edna Didion,
One of the nicest gals to know—believe me, that's no kiddin'!
Lee Fischer is a playwright (as if you didn't know it);
Perhaps he is a poet, too, though he doesn't show it.
Two cousins who have proved that niceness is a family trait
Are Paul Daube and Loretta Daube—two kids we know are great.
Jean Evans is a girl who really tickles all those keys;
She's one out of a thousand who can make a piano please.
Someone who doesn't know might think that Musgrave's been so bright,
Because, instead of courting girls, he studied every night.
Who wants a prima donna can find one in Twelve A two;
She's Shirley Handel to whom acting isn't new.
In trying to get in the mood to act his part so well,
Bob Penman gave up bachelorhood—what now, no one can tell!
To be a good "wall flower" demanded all her acting craft,
For if you think that Ginnie Dickey's one off stage—you're daft.
He used to play at war, and he was then a soldier strong,
But Kendall plays with girls now, and seems to like a throng.
At dancing Ellen Copeland can be easily called tops—
That's why we always hear of her attending proms and hops.

Rolling Stones

Virginia Creehan is a very brainy girl, who Has been a swell addition to the roll of Twelve A two.
You know Ray Brannon is an expert terpsichorean
Who practised dancing with a pillow—now just watch that man.
He daily ate two cuts of cake to make his temper sweet;
Tom Winn is now the nicest guy you'd ever want to meet.
Lou Renkus plays some soccer so that he can get in trim
To be a soda jerker—at least that's what's said of him.
Among our classmates there is one who's travelled to Japan,
And he has been to Europe too—Ward Powell's the lucky man.
Watch out for Sally Daniels, lads; she's got a powerful arm—
Of course if you behave yourselves, she won't do any harm.
No one can really blame the lads, for one would call her swell,
And Mary Joseph seems to handle double trouble well.
Ann Baylis is an athlete of the finest type they say;
She's in the very upper crust of Mt. Lebanon's G.A.A.
You ought to see her play the piano, dance, or act, or sing—
O Bud, that Peg Matheny gal can do 'bout everything!
Dot Massick was the program chairman of the Girl Reserves,
And every bit of praise she gets there's no doubt she deserves.
Though Charles now runs the business of this book,
The part of back stage manager he oft and ably took.
A girl with a winning smile and lots of charming ways
Is Janie Fuchs who causes all the boys around to gaze.
Bill Boore was caught while chasing flies in Spanish class one day,
And had to write three thousands words, a penalty for play.
Among the many pretty girls one can find few so fair
Or nice as this petite brunette whose name is Jean St. Clair.
In choosing girls Largey's favorite color must be green—
At least one might suppose it so; he's always seen with Jean.
There is a blonde in Twelve A two who's really got the stuff—
Dot Seltmann surely has a class play actor in a huff.
Her studies are ace-high, they say, but sports are just her "meat";
When Barbara Jeanne gets up to bat, she's dashed hard to beat.
'Tis told that brains and beauty too are seldom found together—
Babs Babbitt has disproved this law, 'cause she's both cute and clever.
He's swell out on the football field, and on the stage he's rare—
This fellow, girls, (named Baker), is the answer to your prayer.
Mary Jane Fitch's diamond glitters 'round the whole band-room;
We hear told 'round that there's to be a wedding very soon.
He's tall, tan, terrific, this strong and silent man;
None other than Loren Lashbrook—the girls all think he's grand.
She gets around and laughs a lot, all done in peppy zest—
This petite blonde, yes Martie Linn, is "good sport" at its best.
Fred Harlan, master consultant of any music ever—
You'll find no better drummer nor "Faust" singer—never!
When you see red hair coming, regal as a queen—
With "Scotty" following close behind—we'll bet it's titian Jeanne.
There's one boy, tall and lanky fellow, named Myron Boatman—and,
He's the one that beats the drum in Mt. Lebanon's High School band.
Quite sophisticated looking—that cutie, Mary Lee,
And when you get to know her she's as swell as she can be.

Tom Moore has quite the yen to dissect worms and also crayfish;
 Perhaps he'll be a butcher and satisfy his wish.
 He's quite the "soda-jerker" when the summer rolls around—
 That peppy Warren Deemer in "Sun Drug" is always found.
 That little bit of pulchritude who has Bob on the yank—
 That cute brunette, a G. R. girl, of course we mean our "Hank".
 She's quiet as a mouse in school; she rarely says a word.
 But just the same we know she's there—that nice girl Frances Burge.
 A blonde, by jove, approved by gents—a special gent named Irv
 A niftier number can't be found with Alyce Donges's verve.
 The one who looks so studious in classrooms every day—
 He's maestro Allen Hurford, thinking up new tunes to play.
 I've heard it said so often that beauty's just skin-deep;
 Marg Kerrigan's good proof that those statements just don't keep.
 That rapid talking editor of our school's "Lantern Shines"
 Is none other than Ralph Kallock, the one behind headlines.
 The G. R. girl who has Bob Holmes astanding on his ear
 Is Bernie Linnert, blonde and cute; Bob says she's just a dear.
 Another bit of prettiness, the vamp in Growing Pains
 Is Ginny Kraber—red head—cheerleader at the games.
 The man behind the "Growing Pains"—the up and coming playwright,
 Jim Looney, we're expecting you to rise to fame all right.
 Eternal "cut up" always into everything around—
 A ticket "barker", opry singer, Jack Wilson—12 A's clown.
 Bill Tattersall, the perfect mate for comedy renown,
 For Wilson's puns he's quite the foil—another 12 A clown.
 Another robust fellow for our calendar of fame—
 He's tall and strong, good natured too, John Hutchison's the name.
 She's always ready with a smile, that charming, small coquette;
 She's Hazel's pal and loads of fun—yes, we mean Bernadette.
 The pensive blonde who walks the halls with Al, arm in arm,
 Is striking Martha McGee, just radiating charm.
 Alan Schriver's quite the chap for doing pantomime;
 This gift may lead to fame. Say, Al, we'll see you in the "Times".
 A girl who's sure to make her mark in days that are to come
 Has made swell marks in school right now—Norma, quiet one.
 The spitfire of the class play—38's Kate Cornell—
 Jane Robinson's the one I mean, and I mean she does swell.
 Irv Roche, the future chemist, who appears so very cool,
 Is swell fun on a party, but he just won't fool in school.
 Bets Shanor, tall, brunette, and cute, whose smile is something swell,
 Is the reason that Kiski boy hangs around, or so the gossips tell.
 That red head, John Kernan, we hear goes in for riding bikes;
 Though it's hard work, at any rate, it's easier than hikes.
 Ed Russell's just another fan for sports—but baseball's first—
 Seeing him in action you know why he has this sporty thirst.
 The other one who's suffering too, to write this silly rime—
 Scholastically and socially swell—Come, Schreiner, rise and shine!
 Perhaps in vain we've just reviewed these schoolday pals, but when You go on through to college too, read this for times' sake then—
 Recalling all the fun we had way back there. Now—Amen!

PEG MATHENY,
 SAM SCHREINER.

SINCE nineteen thirty-one Mount Lebanon High School has been proud of its very active chapter of the National Honor Society.

To be chosen a member of this society, that has chapters in different high schools all over the United States, is an honor. Only those who have been outstanding in school-life are eligible for membership. The students are chosen for their superior character, scholarship, leadership, and service. The main purpose of the society is the encouragement of these four qualities in the youth of today. One year's attendance at Mount Lebanon High School is also required for eligibility. The membership is limited to fifteen per cent of the graduating class; these are selected by a committee of the faculty.

This society has upheld very high standards and as a result several members of the society have been awarded scholarships to various colleges. The National Honor Society has done much to improve the ideals of the high school student throughout the United States.

Honor Award Society

First Row: Charles Burlingham, Betty Craig, Barbara Jeanne Arther, Nancy McKelvie, Lois Grove, Jane Phillips, Kathleen Lusch, Mildred Anderson, John Goldthwait.

Second Row: Lee Fischer, Clair Heatley, Bill Allen, Homer Musgrave, Ed Hamilton, Dan Robb, Jack Davis, Jack Lane, Sam Schreiner, Jim Lowe, Ralph Kallock.

THE Honor Award Society is composed of all those students who have received activities keys.

Students who have participated in activities throughout their three years in senior high school have the opportunity of receiving an activities award. When a student earns at least ninety points in a varied field of activities, he is entitled to a key. If two hundred points are earned, a guard to the key is presented. No student can receive an activities key before his junior A semester.

A student may receive points from a vast number of activities, such as being a member of a squad or committee, a home-room officer, or perhaps for being active in athletics.

The Honor Award Committee, which is composed of at least six members—one from each grade—keeps a record of activities points. The members of this committee are appointed by the Executive Committee and serve throughout their school term.

Activities Banquet

THE annual activities banquet was held last May in the boys' gym. In the gym the guests found long rows of tables cleverly set with Lebanon Lanterns, used as place-cards. Foster Grose, the president of the Executive Board, presented the Senior High awards. Among these were the activities awards, athletic letters, National Honor Society pins, and cheerleader letters. The editors of the publications and captains of athletic teams for the following year were announced.

Tom Shields, president of the Student Council, presented the Junior High honor letters. The G. A. A. emblems were given out by Eileen McQuillen, its president. The Principal's Trophy, given to the outstanding gentleman athlete, was awarded to Foster Grose. Averell Daniel was elected to the Alumni Hall of Fame. The Chesterfield Cup, which is presented for scholarship, strong character, participation in activities, and services given to the school, was awarded to Ruth Beachler, the first girl to receive that honor.

Dr. Lanfear, Dean of Men at the University of Pittsburgh, gave a philosophical, yet amusing talk.

UNDER the sponsorship of Miss Rightmire, a student squad of one hundred and fifty members handles the traffic in our halls. The squad is composed of two divisions, the active officers and the reserves, who are chosen to fill any temporary vacancies which may occur. Supervising the work of the traffic squad is a committee consisting of the general chairman and four floor chairmen.

For the fall semester this committee consisted of Bill Allen, general chairman, Ray Jones, chairman of the first floor, Henry Massick, chairman of the second, Mildred Anderson, chairman of the third, and Albert Lammert, chairman of the ground floor. The secretary of the squad was Dorothy Morris. Dorothy Douglas was the chairman of the information squad, which is part of the traffic squad.

For the spring semester the committee consisted of Ray Jones, general chairman, Henry Massick, chairman of the first floor, Dick Horning, chairman of the second, and Irvan Roche, chairman for the third floor. Dorothy Morris again served as secretary for the traffic squad and Dorothy Douglas continued as chairman of the information squad.

THE Lebanon Log, Mt. Lebanon High School's annual publication, aims to give the students a record of their high school days. The seniors receive special recognition, but in order to make it a book of general interest, a pictorial representation of all the grades and of all activities has been included.

Joe Minnotte, the school's outstanding artist, sculptured figures out of clay, which were then photographed, and used as the frontispieces for the various sections of the yearbook.

The stress this year, as was true of the last edition, is placed on more and better pictures; consequently, the staff has consolidated the available written material in order to give more space to the posed and candid-camera pictures. In years to come it is hoped these pictures will recall more clearly to the students a picture of their schooldays.

Lebanon Lantern

DURING the past year the Lebanon Lantern, commanded by co-editors Ralph Kallock and John Goldthwait, business manager, Betty Erenrich, and faculty sponsor, Miss McLaughlin, has increased its popularity among the students of Mt. Lebanon High School by the continued high standard of work established in previous years. The introduction of candid-camera shots made by photographers Allen Hurford, Joe Kimmel, and Newton Heisley, has seen added student interest in each issue of the Lantern, and the newly established "Want-ad Section" has proved useful to many.

Congratulations to the full staff for its complete co-operation to give Mt. Lebanon one of the finer school papers.

"Growing Pains"

JUST think what fun it would be to have a role in a play and just walk around the stage being yourself. Such were the majority of parts in the nineteen thirty-eight class play "Growing Pains". The parts of Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre were the only character parts in the play, convincingly played by Dorothy Douglas and Howard Hanna.

The key to the success of this comedy lay in its juvenile simplicity and in reliving the joys and trials of our own growing pains with the McIntyre children, played by Barbara Babbitt and Frank Baker. A great directing job was again turned in by Miss Katheran Stoner as she capably and tirelessly directed the largest cast ever to be presented in a Mt. Lebanon class play, including: Virginia Kraber, Roland Bowman, Bob Penman, Bob Zwinggi, Virginia Dickey, Mary Frances Connor, Isabelle Gup, Homer Musgrave, George Blank, Elizabeth Hill, Jane Nelson, and Dan Robb. Others without whom the play would have been incomplete were: Vaughn Gordy, Ellen Copeland, Irvan Roche, Jean Faris, Warren Drexler, Jeanne Chalfant, Jack Wilson, Alyce Donges, and Connie Bleecker.

"Three Cornered Moon"

"Three Cornered Moon", a comedy in three acts, by Gertrude Tonkonogy, was presented by the January class on November 18 and 19. The story concerned a family whose small fortune had been lost in the stock-market crash. Elizabeth, a vivacious young girl, was played by Florence Rick. Paul Garver took the part of Kenneth, the eldest son who had acquired a Harvard accent. Jim Kramer was Douglas, the son who thought he had dramatic ability. The baby of the family, Ed, otherwise Claude Moreland, was still looked after by his mother, a dazed, rattle-brained woman characterized by Mildred Anderson. Bill Allen, as Dr. Stevens, helped the family to learn to be practical. The part of Donald was taken by Ted Goldsmith.

Dottie Lou Evans, as Kitty, enlivened the performance. Janet Orr, Jenny the foreign maid, was an amusing character.

Miss Katheran Stoner directed this comedy which compared favorably to the movie and stage versions.

Orchestra

UNDER Mr. Miescer's able direction the orchestra put in another busy season. It assisted at many functions: during intermissions of the class plays, at senior assembly, and for the January commencement.

Many new instruments were acquired by the organization this fall. Besides those added to the band, there were a string bass, a cello, and two violas. Since it requires a long time to learn to play an instrument as difficult as the viola, no violas have appeared in the orchestra this year. However, when the violas can be used, the orchestra (with the added strength in the string section) will take on a richer tone.

Mt. Lebanon's orchestra was well represented at the District Orchestra and also at the All-State Orchestra concerts sponsored by the Pennsylvania School Music Association. Mr. Miescer was a guest conductor at both of these concerts.

THIS year the band, under the direction of Mr. Miescer, has again taken a large part in school activities. One of the chief functions of the band was to provide entertainment for the football fans between halves of every game. In addition to this the band was featured on a P. T. A. program in January; in May, the annual band concert was held. These concerts were given by the concert band of sixty-five members.

In the fall the band acquired many new instruments among which were a bassoon, a larger drum, four French horns, a bass clarinet, two alto clarinets, two snare drums, and a sousaphone. A junior band of about forty-five students was formed also.

Under the auspices of the Pennsylvania School Music Association, both District and All-State Band concerts were given. At each of these Mt. Lebanon was well represented. Mr. Miescer was a guest conductor at both of these concerts.

Clair Heatley, drum major of the band, again thrilled fans at the games with his spectacular baton twirling. Another outstanding member of the band is Robert Nagel, who was featured as cornet soloist on a nation-wide broadcast from Cincinnati.

Norwegian Nights

Against a background of snow-capped mountains, Edvard Grieg's music, native Norwegian costumes, English costumes of the 1870's, brilliant ballets, and the famed Northern Lights, Mt. Lebanon High presented the operetta "Norwegian Nights" last March.

The role of Grieg was sung by Jack Manheimer, and Shirley Handel, as Nina, played opposite him. Ralph Kallock was Herman Hagerup, and George Lacy acted Josiah Marmaduke.

Bjornson was portrayed by Sam Schreiner. Jean Dawson and Allen Hurford appeared as a bridal couple. Otter, Grieg's agent, was played by Jack Wilson.

Jim Huntsberger, Hal Calvert, Paul Hughes, and Clarence Hilliard cavorted as Hans, Nils, Arne, and Jan, natives of Norway. Jack Stauff, Boblyn Quail, Ruth Stanley, and Eleene Rearick made up the Covington family, English visitors. Jack Klippel was a Norwegian policeman.

Characters in the dream, a dramatization of Grieg's "Peer Gynt Suite", were: Peer Gynt, Joe Kimmel; Solvejg, Martha McFall; Mountain King, George Coward; his daughter, Charlotte Schultz; Herald of The Prophet, Betty Jean Proctor; Anitra, Eileen Hilf and Jeanne Ivory; and Asa, Lois Woodburn.

Mrs. Jameson, as director, was assisted by Miss Stoner and Miss Gould.

Glee Club

THE Mt. Lebanon High School Glee Club, under the baton of Mrs. Jameson, has just completed its second organized year. Decked out in new choral robes, the Glee Club has given numerous programs for various school and civic organizations. At Christmas time it cooperated with Miss Stoner's dramatic group in presenting a program for the High School P.T.A. in the Washington Auditorium.

When Mrs. Jameson came to Mt. Lebanon, as Miss Hertzler, in the fall of 1935, and began the organization of a choral group, she was accorded much acclaim. With the help of Jack Stauff, the first student manager, and Jane Schlough, who succeeded him this year, an organization with voices and a repertoire that might well be envied by an older school, has been developed. Admission into the Glee Club is by trial and selection by the music instructor, and High School activities points are awarded for participation.

This is Mrs. Jameson's last year as music supervisor in Mt. Lebanon High, but she has left a permanent mark in the form of a Glee Club composed of willing and trained singers.

The First Eleven

Line: Don Jones, Harry Shepard, Bob Marmion, Hap Langstaff, Ed Hamilton, Bob Day, Dan Robb.
Backfield: Bob Ufer, Manus Scott, Jack Fischer, Frank Baker.

THE 1937 edition of the Mount Lebanon Blue Devils, by winning eight games and losing only one, compiled the greatest record in the school's history. The light, fast, hard-blocking line worked wonders against its bigger but slower opponents. Offensively no lineman stood out, but Captain Fischer's blocking and Bob Ufer's running showed best in the backfield. Robb and Langstaff appeared best on defense, but the entire line was strong in this department. The fact that no team scored through our line and only 19 points were scored by our opponents shows the defensive strength.

Prospects for next year appear bright, but Coach Luecht must still find capable replacements for Robb, Jones, Fischer, and Ufer. Next year's team will be built around Langstaff, Marmion, Scott, Hamilton, Campbell, Donahoe, and White-lock with Potts, Zama, Lang, Bernhard, Flanigan, and DeLonga as the most likely replacements.

A Squad Football

Mt. Lebanon 6

Swissvale 0

The Mounties opened the 1937 season by downing Swissvale in a thrilling game, featured by two great goal line stands by the Blue and Gold. A second pass—Scott to Robb—netted the only score.

Mt. Lebanon 14

Stowe 0

Featuring sensational line play by Hap Langstaff, small right guard, the Mounties buried Stowe under an avalanche of power. Ufer scored twice to end long drives and also fumbled on the goal line to lose another score. The smashing Mounties' defense stopped the class "A" champs cold.

Mt. Lebanon 0

Dormont 12

Bad breaks, poor blocking, and no pass coverage resulted in the Mounties' only defeat of the season. Although they out-gained Dormont in every department of the game, they could never reach pay dirt. Excuses are not offered, but later performances proved that the Mounties did not show their best at Dormont.

First Row: Bob Marmion, Don Jones, Bob Ufer, Ed Hamilton, Frank Baker, Dan Robb, Bob Day, Harry Shepard, Manus Scott, Jack Fischer, Hap Langstaff.

Mt. Lebanon 25

Westinghouse 7

Rebounding violently from their loss at Dormont, the Mounties hit their stride and ran wild. Ufer, Scott, and Fischer teamed to score the first marker, with Ufer, Baker, and Robb adding the remaining points.

Mt. Lebanon 20

Schenley 0

Still on the upswing, the Mounties crashed the city team in the year's roughest game. Scott scored twice, early in the game, and Ufer added a third. Patterson, Schenley's colored flash, caused the boys many anxious moments with his passing and running.

Mt. Lebanon 33

Crafton 0

Playing as poorly as they did at any time during the season, the Blue Devils yet outplayed a small, weak, Crafton team in a game without thrills. Ufer, Lane, and Hamilton did all the scoring, but many other fine scoring chances were lost through fumbles and dropped passes.

C Squad Football

Mt. Lebanon 19

Washington 0

Before 7,000 cheering fans the Mounties downed Washington in a gruelling, hard-fought night game. Sensational line play by the Mounties featured the contest, which showed the Blue and Gold at their best. Ufer scored all the points, but fumbles held the score down. Washington's Weber was agreed upon as the best back fielder seen by the Mounties this season.

Mt. Lebanon 27

Langley 0

Scoring twice in the first and once in the third and fourth periods, the Mounties ended their scheduled season with an easy, uninteresting win. Ufer's three scores and Whitelock's last period score made victory sure.

Mt. Lebanon 13

Ambridge 0

Battling on a wet, cold field, the Mounties ended the season with a victory over the big Ambridge team. Showing a spotty offense and a great goal line stand, the Blue and Gold won their eighth game of the season with Frank Baker in the hero's role. Frank saved the day by breaking up and intercepting the Ambridge passes and finally clinching the game with a touchdown. Ufer scored in the second quarter.

First Row: Bob Edmundson, Walter Taylor, Hobart Chivers, Ed Housley, Bill Hall, Jim McVay, Bob Bamford, Buster Nelson, Bill Davis, Chuck Haus, John Ulam.

Fourth Row: Bob Lewis, Bob McCue, John Matragas, Bob Hugus, Alan Weatherell, Wes Coltman, Wallace Root, Ellsworth Harris, Coach Peterson.

Soccer

THIS year witnessed the formation of the first soccer team to represent Mt. Lebanon. Soccer is listed in the W.P.I.A.L. Early in the spring Mr. Morgan called for applicants for this new sport. The response was heartening and Mr. Morgan formed a fine team in a remarkably short time. It consisted of thirty members, led by acting-captain Tom Aston. The schedule consisted of six section games with three exhibition games. The league games were two each with Bridgeville, Clark, and South Fayette. When this book went to press, the teams stood in good place for the section championship. Next year they hope to get a bigger schedule. They also aim to exchange their make-shift equipment for standard equipment. The formation of a soccer club and an intramural set-up is likewise planned. The purpose of the intramural games will be to choose the best players for the team. Only four players were lost by graduation. Mr. Morgan was also encouraged by the interest displayed by the student body.

First Row: Kenneth Haughin, Walter Cavalovitch, Bill Hoffman, Henry Renton, Bob Nolle, John Sowers, Sam Aston, Lou Renkus.

Third Row: Bob Popp, Harold Lang, Roy DeLonga, Dick Ritter, Jim Fischer, George Warwick (Manager), Ed Hamel, Coach Morgan, Bob Frank, Tom Aston, Bob Weber, Eugene McGinniss, Willis Nolle.

First Row: Mr. Keifer, Bill Tattersall, Paul Garver, Ted Goldsmith.

THE first golf team that ever represented Mt. Lebanon High School got a fine start by winning the first five out of six scheduled matches. Each of three schools was played twice, once at home and once away. McKees Rocks was defeated 13 to 3 and 15 to 0; Bridgeville was likewise downed 10½ to 4½ and 11 to 4. Sewickley was beaten at Mt. Lebanon 9 to 6 but proved to be the stumbling block when they defeated us 3½ to 11½ on their home territory. Our team was made up of eight members. Bill Kramer and Charles Alsopp held down positions, numbers 1 and 2, the entire season. Both of these boys were sent to the state championship matches but failed to place. The team reached the semi-finals after defeating Shadyside 8 to 7 at Westmoreland Country Club. They lost, however, to Kiski at Oakmont 15 to 0, ending a very successful first season.

A Squad Basketball

MOUNT LEBANON'S basketball team successfully closed its league season with a long-sought-for victory over Dormont, clinching second place in Section 8 and finishing only one game behind Dormont. The '37-'38 season was Mr. Glafka's most successful season since he became coach of basketball at Mt. Lebanon. The total team record was twelve victories against eight defeats. By the end of the first half the Mounties had taken three out of six league games. It seemed as though the loss of Bob Ufer and Jack Lane would handicap the team considerably, but Warren Vieth, a newcomer, and "Lefty" Andrews rounded into shape nicely and gained starting positions on the lineup. The second half saw the cagers at their best, winning five of the six league games.

The Blue and Gold played the usual twenty-one games. They placed two games with each of the other section teams: Dormont, Stowe, Carnegie, Crafton, McKees Rocks, and Coraopolis. The inter-sectional games included home and away games with Brentwood and Central Catholic, and single games with Washington, McKeesport, and the Alumni. The Faculty-Senior contest was substituted for the last Washington game.

First Row: Gordon Stewart, Jack Berg, Ray Jones, Jack Shields, Ed Cipriano, Romaine Andrews, Ed Campbell.

Second Row: Mr. Peterson, Frank Baker, Bob Ufer, Ed Hamilton, Warren Vieth, Jack Lane, Mr. Glafka.

B Squad Basketball

First Row: Ed Campbell, Bob Crowell, Doug Copeland, Jack Alderige, Gordon Stewart.
Second Row: John Fitzgerald, Henry McCall, Ward Duchene, Jim Zook, Dean Kroh, John English.
Third Row: Mr. Peterson, Bill Kramer, Bill McMinn, Dave Young, Dick Heacox, Jack Rice.

With Captain Hamilton back for a half year and Warren Vieth, "Lefty" Andrews, Ed Cipriano, and Bill McMinn back for the full year, the outlook for the '38-'39 season is exceptionally good, and the team hopes to capture the sectional title.

The "B" squad played the preliminary games for all but three of the varsity games. They were just as successful as the "A" squad, winning ten out of eighteen games. The "B" squad, ably coached by Mr. Peterson, was led by Alex Copetas, John Fitzgerald and Dick Heacox. Both Copetas and Fitzgerald held their positions for the first half and then were promoted to the varsity, to be replaced by Dave Young and Ward Duchene.

Wrestling

A WRESTLING team of which Mt. Lebanon should be proud was turned out by Coach Luecht even though he was held back by lack of men in certain weights. A few were lost to the team because of illness. This shortage of men resulted in the team's losing from ten to fifteen points in every match; nevertheless, it made a good showing. The grapplers closed the season by splitting two matches with Dormont, taking two from Shadyside, one from Carmichaels, losing one, and tying one with Greensburg. This made a total of four won, two lost, and one draw.

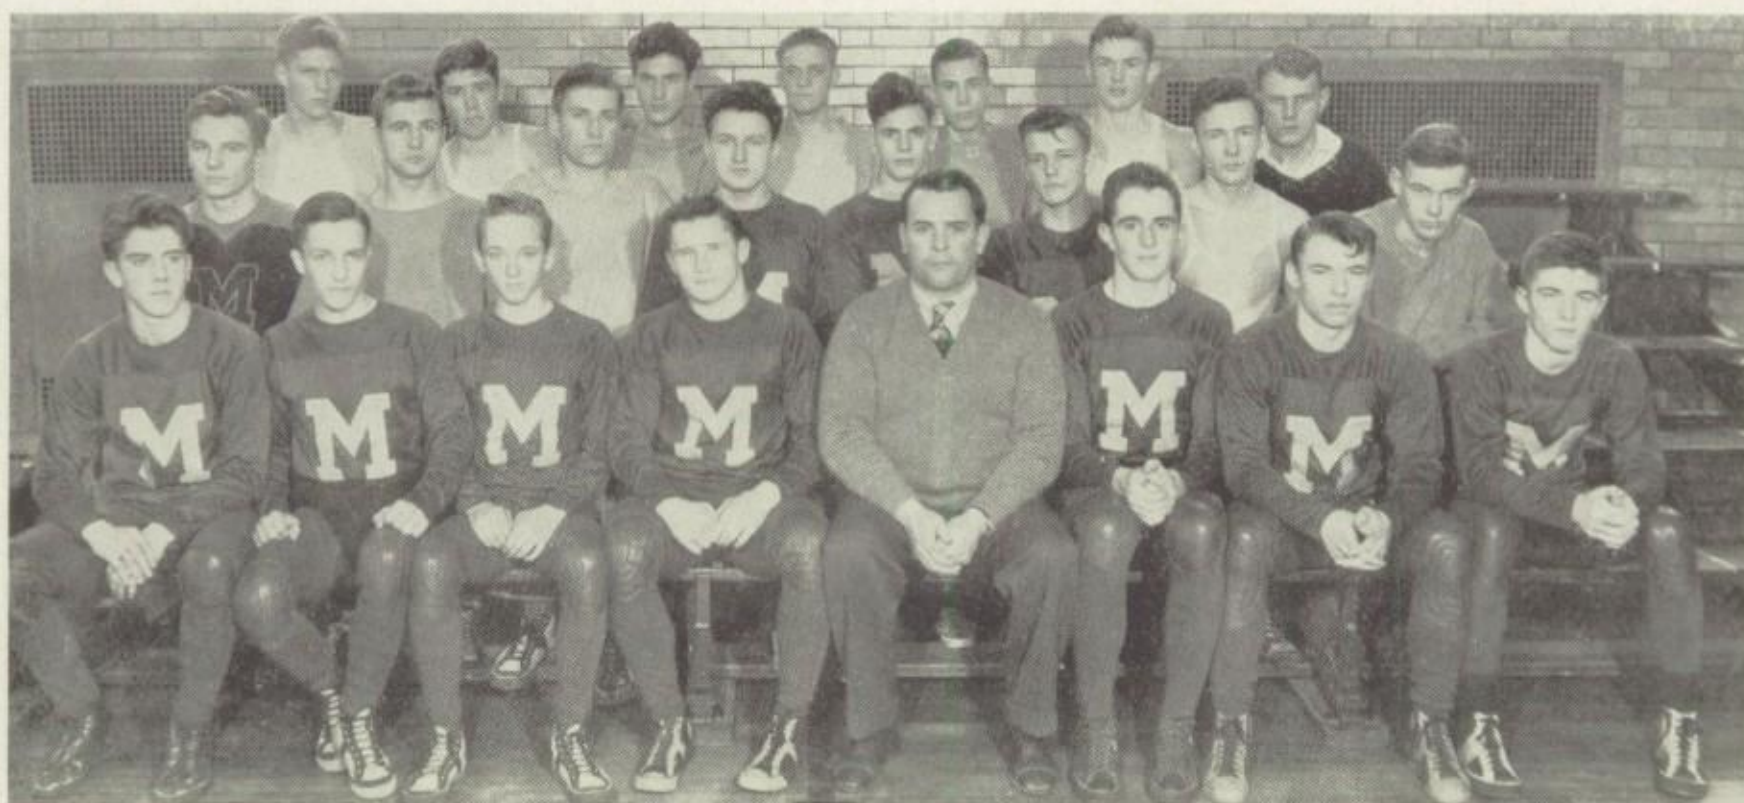

Honorable mention goes to Langstaff, Getty, Graham, and Jaeger, who did much to help the team along.

First Row: Ray Brannon, Bill Sholl, Jim Ryland, Hap Langstaff, Coach Luecht, Stanley Shepard, Hilber Morgan, Paul Getty.

Second Row: Dave Boyd, Walter McCain, John Churchill, Bob Popp, Clarke McCormac, Glenn Heck, Walt Kennedy, Lou Renkus.

Fencing

First Row: Cyril Donoghue, Roy McCutchen, Bill Llewellyn, Bill Baker.

Second Row: Bob Hance, Carl Betz, Mr. Konvolinka, Harry Rowe, Bob Wycoff.

THE Fencing Club, perhaps the most recent sport to be undertaken at Mount Lebanon, was started in the spring of '37. Under the direction of Mr. Konvolinka, it has become one of the foremost fencing groups of Western Pennsylvania. After two months of practice, club eliminations were held and a team made up of Bill Baker, Carl Betz, Cyril Donoghue, Bob Hance, and Bill Llewellyn was chosen.

In the annual tournament of the Amateur Fencers' League of America held in Pittsburgh at Schenley High, the team as a whole won the foil championship of Western Pennsylvania. The results of the first elimination of this tournament found a good representation of Mount Lebanon fencers among the leaders. Bob Hance placed first, Cyril Donoghue second, Carl Betz fourth, and Bill Llewellyn fifth. In the finals, Bob Hance placed first and Bill Llewellyn placed second. The team has given exhibitions at basketball games, at the conference of Physical Education Teachers of Pennsylvania, and at Forest Hills High School.

The chief purpose of the club is to act as a social intermediary between the boys of other high school clubs and those of Mount Lebanon, rather than as a competitive intermediary.

Rifle

THE rifle team has had a successful season in this, its first year of competition. After getting off to a slow start by losing the two opening matches by a small margin to Turtle Creek, it rounded into shape and easily defeated Tarentum and Millvale. In the next match Etna proved victor by sixteen points, the most any team has ever beaten Mt. Lebanon's rifle team. Again the team won a match from Tarentum, following this with two victories over Dormont and a second over Millvale. This totals to six victories in contrast to three defeats. Paul Shanor has consistently been the high-point man of the team. He has had an average of almost ninety-eight out of a possible one hundred.

The team, chosen by competitive elimination from the Rifle Club, is coached by Mr. Streams. It finances all of its undertakings, and the team, as well as the club members, buys all its own equipment.

Track

MT. LEBANON'S 1937 track team, under the coaching of Mr. Sisson, had a successful season. Beside three dual meets there was a triangular meet composed of McKees Rocks, Mt. Lebanon, and Dormont. Mt. Lebanon finished second with thirty-six points. In the independent district meet Mt. Lebanon finished fourth with twelve points. Outstanding performances of the season were Bob Ufer in 100, 200, and 440 yard dashes; Charles Conover in hurdles and pole vaulting; Claude Moreland in the mile run; and Don Lewis in discus throwing. Zama, Robb, Grose, Whitelock, Prescott, and Alderson also did some good work.

The outstanding star of the season and probably the best runner Mt. Lebanon has ever had was Bob Ufer. He won a total of thirteen first places in the regular track season. Records were set in the district meet and the W. P. I. A. L. meet in the 440 yard dash by Ufer, the latter race having been run in 50.8 seconds. In the state meet at Penn State he finished third in a remarkably fast high school quarter mile, the winning time being 49.1 seconds.

First Row: Bob Campbell, Jack Prescott, Bob Day, Bob Whitelock, Claude Moreland.

Tennis

First Row: Joe Salisbury, Jack O'Brien, Jack Southworth, Harry Bender, Jack Lane, Ed Logan.

Mount Lebanon's 1937 tennis season closed with the racqueteers taking nine games out of a possible twelve. McKees Rocks, Crafton, Bridgeville, and Arnold schools each lost two games to our boys, while the Carnegie Tech Plebes divided two games with the players. Shadyside and Vandergrift each won a game, these being the only complete defeats Mt. Lebanon suffered. Of last year's team only two remain, George Blank and Jack Southworth, who is captain-elect for the coming year. Jack Roberts, Joe Salisbury, Harry Bender, Jack Lane, and Bob Simonsen, the former manager, have graduated, while Bob Washabaugh has moved.

The new team will be composed of Mat Reynolds, manager, Jack Southworth, George Blank, Dick Heacox, Jack O'Brien and Elisma Brooks. For the first time tennis will be listed under the W. P. I. A. L. and Mr. Doak, the chairman of the tennis league, will have the responsibility of making up all schedules.

"A Sport For Every Girl And Every Girl A Sport" is the aim of the Girls' Athletic Association.

In the Senior High the major sports are basketball, mushball, volley ball, soccer, cage ball, and hockey. Minor sports include tennis, horseshoes, badminton, and tenikoit. Archery is open only to twelfth graders. Junior High sports include dodge bat ball, interference, newcomb ball, mushball, mass tenikoit, soccer, paddle tennis, and shuffle board.

The G. A. A. Council, consisting of the officers, managers, and assistant managers, is the governing body of the Senior High sports. The Junior High Council has charge of the Junior High league.

To earn a major sport letter, a girl must have thirty-two points distributed equally in at least four major sports and must rank in the upper ten percent of those taking part. A player, wishing to earn a minor sport letter, must distribute her points equally in three minor sports and must be in the upper four percent of the participants in them.

To The Seniors

ELEGY WRITTEN IN A COUNTRY SCHOOLYARD

Well chums, we're through,
Free, white, and almost twenty.
The day has come to burn our books
And live a life of plenty.

We don't have time to linger,
Come on, there's lots to do.
Don't look back; it's over now,
And, you and I—we're through!

Well, come on and start the fun,
Bring on the syncopation.
Whoop it up and let's be done
With school and education!

Somehow these things we've planned sound weak.
We can't give in now, but,
That door we closed on Memories
. . It won't stay shut.

It was fun, wasn't it?
Remember our Freshman Year?
It doesn't seem so long ago
That first we started here.

The Seniors then looked down on us
As we've looked down in turn.
We envied them their place in life,
And the chance they'd had to learn.

But now those years have rolled away,
(As years are apt to do),
And we've attained that same high place.—
What next do we look to?

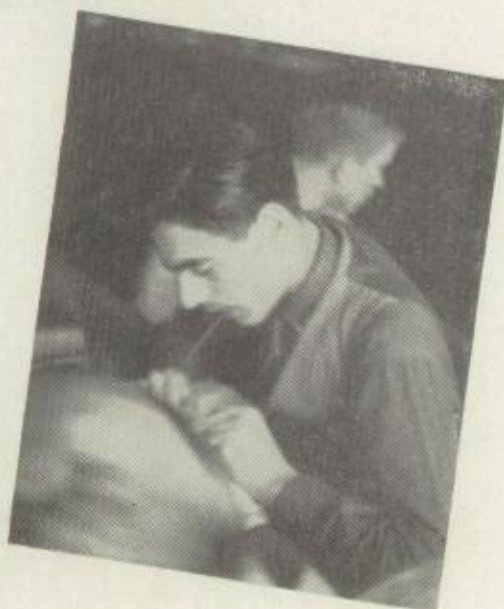

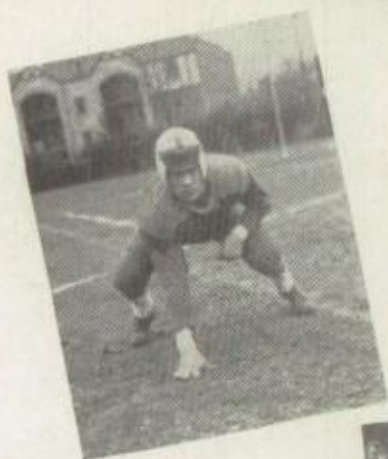

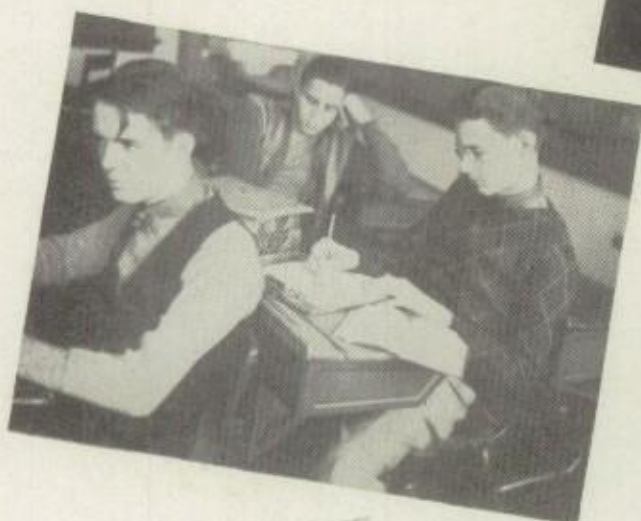

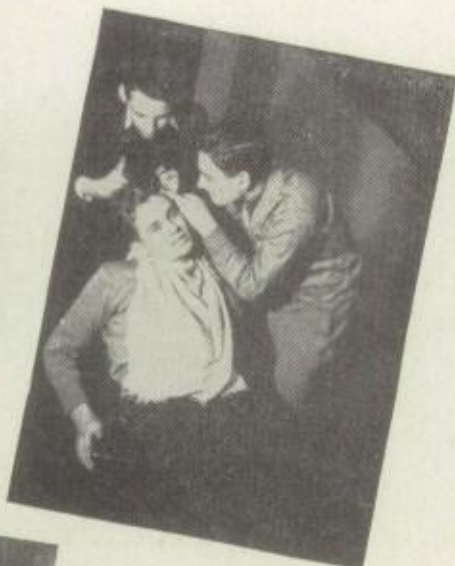

It's harder than we thought to leave;
It's hard to say good-bye.
In fact, instead of dancing off,
Let's just sit down and cry!

We're not too proud to shed a tear
Though it comes almost too late.
And change those cheers to epitaphs
For the class of thirty-eight.

CONNIE BLEECKER.

WHAT WE SENIORS WILL MISS

Running our pencil point along the pretty yellow wall in the hall.
Twice-daily blast through a loud speaker.
Finding cafeteria silverware in our pockets.
A red-fingernailed hand gliding in the classroom door to take the cards.
And wishing we knew to whom it belonged.
Bzz-z. "Room 415?" "What? Who? What's that again?"
"I'm sorry, but I didn't hear you."
And after an hour and a half: "Oh, all right." Then:
"Sam Goldenstein, report to the office at the end of the period."
Down in the office: "Your mother called and said not to forget your rubbers."
"The 'Lantern' Shines Today."
Never looking at the pictures in the main hall.
"Je ne sais pas" in French class and its English meaning in every other class.
Candid camera fiends who take our pictures.
And those who don't. Grr-r.
Pulling ourselves apart on the gym ropes.
116.
The ten minute bell when we're bored in class.
Or the same when we're taking a test and are only half through.
Approaching the class play tryout room as if we were on stilts for the first time.
Study Hall.
The service offered by the sewing dep't. in cases of an embarrassing tear in the clothing.
The barrage of machine gun fire when the door to the typing room is opened.
The handsome beaux and pretty belles in our school on "Log" picture day.
The pretty belles in our school any day.
Something—we don't remember, but we learned it in trig.
Home notices.
The male teachers who always seem to enjoy strolling through the halls for a whole period.
"Bring your excuse tomorrow or you'll go home for it."
A perfume that originates in Mr. Shaner's room about every other day.
Sitting in the rain, munching a soggy hot-dog, a-yelling "down in front!"
Chatting with the girl at "Information" and getting shooed by Miss Rightmire.
" 'Neath cedars stately, midst hills so bold—".
Having ink spattered over our "Logs" while getting autographs.
Leaving school for Christmas vacation and coming back.
Getting excused from class, then standing in the hall chatting, with an eye on the clock.
Not taking P.T.A. notices home.
The little tots.
Everything else not mentioned above.
Saying goodbye.

SONNETT TO HOMEWORK

To thee, dear lady, must I now address
One last but hopeful plea to let me be.
How thy sweet voice has caused me misery
And often cast my soul into distress!
I would not miss at night thy sweet caress,
Oh, no, my life would be gay and free
If I, oh love, could be but rid of thee.
If I could but rid me of thy stress!

Yet how I'll need thee when nine weeks have passed
And the time has come when I must face the test.
Without thee by my side I'll surely fail,
So I am well convinced that at the last
I must succumb to thee. 'Tis but a jest,
All this revolt! . . . So back to Vergil's tale.

ODE TO THE CLASSROOM CHAIRS

The chairs in the classroom are initialed and scarred,
And, though many have used them, the seats are still hard.
Of some of the occupants they're known to have had,
One can tell by the markings if gay, or if sad.
A student in deep thought has penciled a groove,
And try as one might, it can't be removed.
The gum chewing fiends leave their marks as they flee,
'Neath the arms of the chairs, where the teachers won't see.
There are graceful initials in hearts one can't miss;
The engravers carved them in raptures of bliss.
On the backs of the chairs preceding their own
The cartoonists have pictured the Chinese war zone.
And the doodlers have added their artistic touch,
If the circles and numerals can qualify as such.
Oh, what would school be without these good chairs,
With the beautiful markings they're destined to wear?

SIXTH GRADE

Dear Joy

Mother says I can't come over to your house tonight. Mother says
I come over to much and I didn't tell her we're in love. Don't you tell anybody cause we'll wait till we get married and surprise them all. Won't the teachers be surprised? Then we can go and live our own life and no one can tell us what to do and I'll come over and see you when ever I want and Miss Goldfish can't ball us out then.

Yours truly,
Jack

EIGHTH GRADE

Joy:

Dick told me you went to the show with Paul Youngster Tuesday. I thought you couldn't go out on school nights and anyhow I could take you to the show. Just because Paul is in 9A and his mother drives him to places isn't any reason you should go out with him instead of me. I'm learning to ice skate so I can go ice skating with you and you won't have to go with him anymore. I bet we can skate together just as nice as you can with him. I went to a party Saturday and didn't get home until almost one o'clock.

TENTH GRADE

Dearest Light of the World,

I was reading Poe last night and I thought of you. After I read it
I went out walking and I was thinking about you. I think I'll call you
"Lenore" from now on. It fits you perfectly. I was in a mood this morning.
and at breakfast I didn't pass dad the milk when he asked for it and mother bawled me out and dad got mad when I wouldn't eat. They don't appreciate the finer things in life. It's awful to have to live with people like that.

I wrote this poem about you—

quote "Oh my darling, oh my dearest,
Next to God you are the nearest;
Spirit of beauty, spirit of love,
To me you are like a little white dove." unquote

signed, Henry Hamilton Bellsman

P.S. I'm going to call myself that from now on, cause don't you think it sounds better than William Jenks? Only don't tell anyone.

TWELFTH GRADE

Dear Toots,

How about sprawling on the polished timber Saturday nite? Bud and Aud are going. He got a new Pontiac. Cab Cannedaway's music, y' know.

Love and hisses,
Al

CALENDAR

AUGUST 31

"Heigh-ho! heigh-ho" as back to school we go! Once more we give up a perfectly grand vacation for the cause of education.

SEPTEMBER 6

Another vacation already! "Nice work, if we could get it" more often!

SEPTEMBER 10

The Mounties start the football season with a victory over Swissvale—and the crowd helps the Ways and Means to limber up by calling "Venie, Venie".

SEPTEMBER 24

Mount Lebanon had a football game with Dormont; we won't mention the outcome because it's "on the sentimental side".

OCTOBER 14

The G. R. Girls give a dance and we really "get some fun out of life".

OCTOBER 15

All the teachers go to a convention and "we feel like fishes out of water". Or do we?

OCTOBER 29

"Tear it down?" and how! The Blue Devils strutted their stuff and beat Washington 19-0.

NOVEMBER 4

Report cards are distributed, and we can just hear someone say, "Let that be a lesson to you."

NOVEMBER 18 AND 19

"It must have been moonglow" that helped the January class's Three Cornered Moon to be such a success.

NOVEMBER 25

Side remarks to the turkey: "You appeal to me."

DECEMBER 3

The Mounties open the basketball season by beating Brentwood. Perhaps "things are looking up".

DECEMBER 20

Instead of having "tea for two" the senior B's have a tea for a hundred and fifty. The guests were the Senior A girls and their mothers.

DECEMBER 23

"Santa Claus is coming to town" (we hope), and so we celebrate by swinging it in the girls' gym.

DECEMBER 29

We all truck down to the Girl Reserves' annual Christmas Dance because "it's the natural thing to do".

JANUARY 3

"True confession": We just couldn't wait to get back to school and hear what the kids had done during Christmas vacation.

JANUARY 13

Senior Recognition Day. This is one day the Senior A's can be a "little bit independent". They deck themselves out in green and gray costumes.

JANUARY 17

We all need "sympathy". Eighteen weeks' tests are no fun.

JANUARY 21

The January class of 1938 graduates and takes along "so many memories".

JANUARY 24

A new semester begins and we all resolve to "hitch our wagons to a star".

FEBRUARY 1

One by one a few P. G.'s straggle back and ask, "Remember me?"

FEBRUARY 22

The cagers "hit a new high" and beat Dormont 52-30.

MARCH 10

Everyone wonders who said "I double dare you" to the clowns in the operetta so that they just couldn't resist shouting "Bei Mir Bist Du Schön".

MARCH 11

"You and I know" how hard it will be to produce another operetta like Norwegian Nights.

MARCH 16

No wonder the girls in the G.A.A. look forward to play days; they only have them "once in a while".

MARCH 28

Once again it is that fatal day when report cards are distributed. We can't say it's a "thrill of a lifetime".

APRIL 1

All Fools' Day. We get "that old feeling" to play our friends for suckers. Well anyhow, the "foo" dance that evening wasn't a joke.

APRIL 7 AND 8

"Our hearts take lessons" on how to avoid Growing Pains. The Senior A's class play is a cure-all.

APRIL 14

Another Easter vacation rolls around with all of us looking forward to "having a wonderful time".

APRIL 29

Why do we have "something to sing about"? Haven't you heard? Doctor Rhythm is officiating in the gym tonight.

MAY 6

We can't help "living the life we love" when we attend the Girl Reserves' last dance of the season.

MAY 10

There are lots more than "ten pretty girls" in school today. It's that very special occasion—the Senior Tea!

MAY 19

Those lucky five hundred attending the Activities Banquet agree "it's de-lovely".

MAY 24

Senior Recognition Day. If the Senior A's had bagpipes, we'd think the "Campbells were coming", for their outfits are plaid and white. Who knows but what they will do the highland fling at their dance tonight.

JUNE 3

Commencement. At an impressive graduation one hundred and ninety-three students bid good-bye. May they remember their high school days "always and always".
